

University of Pittsburgh
Greensburg

Anthropology

undergraduate program

Faculty Contact Information:

Lipika Mazumdar, PhD
lim2@pitt.edu

<http://pi.tt/UPGprospective>

Career Services:

Did you know that 80% of Pitt-Greensburg students complete an internship or experiential learning during their time here? The Office of Career Services offers a wide variety of resources to let students explore what they can do with their major and what types of services are available.

Director of Career Services:

Dorothy Zilic
(dmz17@pitt.edu)

Assistant Director of Career Services:

Marcy Yonkey
(marcy.yonkey@pitt.edu)

Internship Coordinator:

Kristen Stratton
(kms298@pitt.edu)

Welcome to our Pitt Anthropology community, where students will develop the skills and knowledge that will prepare them for their future career!

Program Overview:

Anthropology is the study of human behavior – around the contemporary world, throughout our evolution as a species, and our social history across the ages. As an Anthropology major, you will learn to investigate this magnificence of humanity. Socio-cultural anthropology encourages us to appreciate the vast diversity of cultures today. You will learn to recognize their shared characteristics and identify their unique expressions.

Many of our students study abroad and gain first-hand experiences with another culture. Studying archaeology will help you explore how societies of the past developed and changed through time. You will examine artifacts of bygone cultures, learn to analyze them, and decipher how peoples of long ago incorporated them into their daily lives. These experiences within small class sizes and individual mentoring will prepare you for future studies in anthropology, should you choose to specialize your career path in graduate school.

Internship Opportunities & Job Placements:

CAC AmeriCorps
UPMC
Adelphoi Village

Women's Help Center, Inc.
Allegheny County Library System
Stell Environmental

Get Involved:

With more than 40 clubs on campus, there is no lack of ways to be involved at Pitt-Greensburg. Anthropology majors may want to consider joining the History Club. Students with an interest in other cultures may want to join the Spanish Club or the Diversity Student Coalition.

Learn more at:
greensburg.pitt.edu/admissions